

A.T. Shuttles, Public Transportation, & Vandalism Alerts

Listed south to north by location of shuttle provider

September 10, 2012

Cautionary note: This listing is provided as an information service for A.T. hikers and does not constitute an endorsement by the Appalachian Trail Conservancy (ATC) of the dependability or safety of the service providers listed. ATC does not conduct background checks of shuttlers on this list, nor do we verify that they hold licenses, permits, or insurance. While some service providers may be members of the ATC, they are not representatives, employees, or agents of the ATC, and their services are not in any way affiliated with the ATC. Arrange shuttles at your own risk; you are responsible for your own safety.

Plan shuttle at beginning of your hike. We recommend that you arrange your shuttle at the beginning of your hike and walk back to your car. This way you are not bound to a rigid schedule once you start your hike.

Advance notice. Many people on this list shuttle on their time off. Arrangements are best made at least 1-2 weeks in advance.

Rates. The ATC does not set rates. Each service provider sets its own rates; it is up to you to determine whether these are equitable. Rates in this listing may not be current due to changes in gas prices or other factors. For individuals who do not have set rates, consider the cost of gas, vehicle maintenance, insurance, and the driver's time when making an offer.

Parking and access. The official A.T. guidebooks and maps, available from ATC's "Ultimate Trail Store" at www.appalachiantrail.org, at ATC's Headquarters in Harpers Ferry, WV, and at local outfitters, offer detailed information about trailhead parking and trail access points. An interactive map showing parking areas with directions and GPS points can be found on ATC's website at www.appalachiantrail.org/interactive-map. Additional information posted by hikers and trail clubs can be found at <http://appalachiantrail.rohland.org>, a Web site created and maintained by the Rohlands.

parking area may be subject to vandalism; check with the local trail club or land-managing agency before leaving a car in an unattended location to find out if there is a history of problems. Local businesses will sometimes allow you to park your car for a fee. Trailheads with known problems are noted in this listing at the end of each state.

Tips for deterring vandals:

Report theft, vandalism and suspicious persons and activities to the local land manager or police and ATC. Information about reporting can be found on our website at www.appalachiantrail.org/incidents or can be emailed to incident@appalachiantrail.org.

Remove all valuables from your vehicle. This includes CDs, sunglasses, portable GPS units, and expensive stereos. If you must leave valuables in your car, lock items out of sight before reaching the trailhead so you cannot be observed stowing them. Leave glove box empty and open (but take care not to run down your vehicle's battery).

Park vehicle in the open, away from trees and shrubs where vandals can hide. Don't back in with the hatch or trunk facing the woods.

Label your gear. Record brand name, model, and serial number of your equipment. Engrave or permanently mark them with your personal identification.

Don't leave notes in your car for friends advising them of your plans.

Do leave an itinerary of your hike with family, along with details about your vehicle and gear.

Updates. Before your hike, be sure to check for updates to the trail and to services along the A.T. at www.appalachiantrail.org/updates.

Feedback. Please contact the ATC if any information on our shuttle list needs to be corrected or if you wish to comment on the service received:

VERMONT

Vermont spring mud season advisory: Hikers are urged to stay off hiking trails April 15 - Memorial Day Weekend.

Please help protect the fragile alpine tundra and prevent soil erosion by staying off the A.T. in Vermont during mud season. This will allow the trails to dry out and reduce the amount of maintenance required each year to keep them safe and enjoyable. For more information, visit www.greenmountainclub.org.

Vandalism Alerts in Vermont

Danby-Landgrove Road/USFS 10:
Vandalism/theft reported here 8/09.

Vermont A.T./Long Trail trailhead caution:

Vandalism is a problem at some trailheads. Overnight trailhead parking is always risky. If possible, leave your vehicle in town. It is sometimes wiser to leave a car away from the trail near major public transportation routes. Police and service stations will usually provide a place to park (in the case of the latter for a small fee), and the Long Trail may then be reached by walking, taxi, or other public transportation.
